36th EUROPEAN SYMPOSIUM ON RELIABILITY OF ELECTRON DEVICES. FAILURE PHYSICS AND ANALYSIS

WELCOME MESSAGE

This international symposium continues to focus on recent developments and future directions in Quality and Reliability Management of materials, devices and circuits for micro-, nano-, and optoelectronics. It provides a European forum for developing all aspects of reliability management and innovative analysis techniques for present and future electronic applications.

ESREF 2025 will be held in Bordeaux. Bordeaux is part of the UNESCO World Heritage List and classified as "City of Art and History".

ESREF 2025 will be organized by IMS laboratory, University of Bordeaux in collaboration with LAAS-CNRS, University of Toulouse, CNES and ADERA.

Hosting ESREF 2025 is a great opportunity since reliability in these particular applications is a very hot topic with strong challenges such as zero ppm failure and harsh environments. For this 36th edition, in addition to the core topics of the conference, we would like to involve the major actors of aeronautics, space and embedded systems industry to provide specific topics such as radiation hardening, very long-term reliability, high/low temperature challenges, obsolescence and counterfeit issues, wide band gap power devices for the more electric aircraft and other embedded system applications.

A large place will be given to exhibitors. The Symposium will feature the latest in service providers, equipment manufacturer and suppliers in this fields.

We are looking forward to welcoming you for a memorable experience!
